For more than 25 years, David E. Heiss has defended his clients' interests in commercial, tort, insurance, reinsurance, and corporate litigation, domestically and abroad. Armed with extensive insurance coverage experience—including disputes in excess of $100 million—Dave's insurance industry clients frequently turn to him for advice on first-party coverage disputes. He has also tried cases to verdict in numerous state and federal jurisdictions throughout the country.

In addition to helping his clients navigate complex property coverage issues, Dave counsels insurers on matters involving first-party commercial disputes, extended coverages, agent and broker liability, equipment breakdown coverage, builder's risk coverage, and bad faith. Recently, he used his diverse knowledge and experience to address his client's specific needs and concerns regarding the COVID-19 pandemic. He has also served as an arbitrator and an appraiser in significant loss disputes.

As part of his practice, Dave advises private-sector companies on a wide range of legal issues affecting all segments of their business, including insurance procurement, regulatory issues, and risk management.

Dave began his legal career with a Chicago-based boutique law firm. Before joining Hinshaw, he practiced for over two decades at Kanaris, Stubenvoll & Heiss, P.C., where he was a shareholder.
