Jorge Canamero manages and executes all aspects of commercial insurance defense cases on behalf of insurance companies. He also provides counsel in insurance coverage, commercial disputes, and managed care disputes and litigates healthcare-related claims. Jorge counsels health plans and commercial payors in disputes regarding underpayments, denials based on medical necessity, experimental treatments, recoupments, coding audits, and reimbursable line item charge denials.

Jorge also has significant experience in complex commercial litigation and high-stakes business disputes such as breach of contract claims and real estate matters. He has successfully represented clients in a variety of industries, including hotel and hospitality groups, real estate development, healthcare, and manufacturing.

Before joining Hinshaw, Jorge assisted clients with real estate transactions, lending and construction contracts, and securities and financial services litigation, including representing investors and registered representatives before the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA).

Jorge previously served as general counsel to a midsize company, assisting company executives with various legal issues—labor and employment disputes, supplier and vendor agreements, product warranties, and real estate matters.
