Logan Haine-Roberts represents insurance companies up and down the east coast in significant coverage matters. He advises his insurance carrier clients on emerging coverage issues, complex claims, and bad faith matters. His practice focuses on commercial general liability, umbrella, and excess coverages, including bodily injury claims and claims for construction defects at high-value residences and large multi-family developments. Logan also advises clients regarding cyber coverage and first-party coverage claims, including resulting coverage litigation where needed.

In addition to litigating coverage with policyholders, claimants, and other insurance companies, Logan counsels his clients on claims handling and management. He provides oversight and negotiates high-volume collections of claims across jurisdictions to protect his carrier clients. Moreover, Logan has helped his clients with complex policy exhaustions spanning multiple years of coverage and layers, resolving hundreds of claims in the process.

Logan began his career handling insurance coverage matters at a firm in Washington, D.C., before moving to Miami and joining Hinshaw as an associate in 2016. Now, as a partner in the firm's Miami and New York offices, Logan continues to advise his clients regarding state-specific issues and works to protect their interests more generally.
