Sue Yun Kim is a litigation paralegal. She assists attorneys with litigation involving consumer matters, class actions, product liability, environmental matters, and toxic tort claims. Sue has substantial experience in document production and the preparation for the filing of motions, notices, and objections. She assists attorneys at all phases of the litigation process by conducting legal research and analysis of case-related documents as well as drafting a wide variety of documents, including agreements, consent forms, legal memos, and exhibits for trial. She has nearly a decade of experience in writing, editing, and proofing content for publication.

Sue speaks Korean.

Prior to joining Hinshaw, Sue was a paralegal in a boutique family law firm in Beverly Hills, California. She also served as a legal assistant at a trademark infringement and business transactions firm in Los Angeles. Prior to her paralegal career, Sue was a junior director for a private educational institution.
