- Trademark clearance searches and advice on protectability of marks
- Preparing, filing, and prosecuting applications before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office and assisting with maintenance of registrations
- Assisting with global protection of marks
- Cease and desist letters, trademark oppositions and cancellations, Uniform Domain Name Dispute Resolution Policy (UDRP) proceedings, and trademark litigation
- Trademark due diligence in transactions
- Advising on commercial intellectual property agreements, including franchising, licensing, and assignment transactions

An integral element of brand management involves protecting a brand's online presence. Hodgson Russ attorneys assist with domain name registration services and work with clients to register Internet domain names through appropriate registrars and to secure website addresses for brands and businesses. Registering domain names at the outset allows clients to reap the benefits of broad exposure over the Internet while also limiting the risks of misuse by others.
