

JAMES ZAWODZINSKI JR.

Senior Associate

jzawodzi@hodgsonruss.com 716.848.1595

James focuses his practice on complex litigation matters in both federal and state courts. His experience includes commercial contract and real estate disputes, Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA) matters, proceedings involving both the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) and New York Labor Law, and varying intellectual property matters including those related to patent and trademark litigation and the misappropriation of trade secrets and ideas.

When he's not litigating in the court room, James provides practical advice to clients. He negotiates and resolves "business divorces," acting as a creative problem solver to find economical and efficient outcomes in the division, sale, and transfer of assets for both privately and publicly held companies. James also represents large funders who provide merchant cash advances to merchants across the country, work which has contributed to New York case law surrounding such transactions.

James is a proud member of the firm's Diversity Committee and serves as the President of Homespace Corporation's Board of Directors.
