Given their high-profile status, professional athletes and entertainers are easy targets for state tax officials seeking to collect income taxes on earnings in their states. But because the rules covering multistate taxation are so confusing and often contradicting, many athletes and entertainers find themselves out of compliance in one or more states.

This two-hour CPE webinar will help you assist high-profile clients by providing a practical review of the multistate personal income tax issues and traps that have to be carefully managed. Presenter Timothy P. Noonan, Esq., brings significant experience dealing with multistate tax issues for high-profile clients. He will show you how to safely navigate the dangerous waters of multistate taxation with confidence for your athlete and entertainer clients.
