On June 21, 2020, the New York State Education Department, Office of Special Education issued further guidance concerning the provision of special education instruction and services during the COVID-19 pandemic. Join our special education attorneys in a discussion regarding this guidance. We'll discuss the legal and practical implications, including:

- The provision of in-person special education services over the summer of 2020
- The factors that Committees on Special Education must consider when recommending IEPs for the 2020-2021 school year
- Notable distinctions between Compensatory Services and Extended School Year Services
- Compensatory Education for students over the age of 21
- Documentation requirements for schools when determining Compensatory and Extended School Year Services
- Continuing obligations to conduct evaluations of students with disabilities

Speakers: Ryan Everhart and Andrew Freedman

Who should attend: Board of Education Members, Superintendents, Business Officials, School District Administrators, Special Education Directors, CSE Chairs, other Pupil Services and Special Education staff.
