

REMINDER TO COMPANIES SELLING PRODUCTS IN CALIFORNIA - PROPOSITION 65 REQUIREMENTS TAKE EFFECT AUGUST 30

Litigation Alert
August 3, 2018

Under Proposition 65, businesses with more than ten employees, selling any products in California, including online, through catalog shipments, or through a third-party seller or distributor that sells its products, are required to warn consumers about products which contain component ingredients known to cause cancer, birth defects or other reproductive harm.

In November 2017, California passed amended regulations regarding the content of these warning labels. Businesses selling products in California must comply with these regulations by August 30, 2018.

For a more thorough description of the warning label requirements, please see our original alert published in November 2017 on this topic by clicking here.

For more information about Proposition 65, please contact one of these Hodgson Russ Litigation Practice attorneys: Michael Maxwell, Julia Hilliker, Charles Malcomb or Michael Hecker.

Attorneys

Michael Hecker

Julia Hilliker

Charles Malcomb

Michael Maxwell

Practices & Industries

Business Litigation